Because Email is Essential

MPP, from Message Partners, is the breakthrough email solution that not only gives you industry-leading protection against viruses, spam, and phishing, but with our powerful tools such as archival and content filtering, will turn your email into a fast and effective business tool.

Secure and Protect Your Email

With the threat from viruses and spam at an all-time high, your choice of email security can have a profound impact on the health of your company's email. MPP is the ideal solution to protect your email because our highly accurate and adaptable virus and spam detection makes absolutely certain your email system remains safe and secure.

One-of-a-Kind Adaptability

While email has grown into a near universal business tool, each person's use of email can be quite different. While someone in Legal might need every email archived, someone in Sales might need a lower spam threshold because of too many false positives. MPP is one of the only solutions with a policy engine powerful enough to configure email settings on a per-user and per-domain basis, giving you all the functionality your company requires. Also, MPP's extraordinary adaptability allows you to easily switch virus and spam filters (as well as combine open source and commercial solutions), giving you the flexibility that is key to survival in today's ever more threatening email environment. And all of this adaptability comes without ever having to rip-out the old filtering system or reset and relearn a new one, saving you invaluable time and effort.

Other Key Features

Your investment in MPP affords a full range of email tools including disclaimers, attachment controls, routing, access-control lists, attachment stripping, and more. With all of these critical capabilities, MPP truly is one of the most useful and cost-effective email applications available anywhere.

Business-Critical Compliance

As email's importance grows, the government has stepped in and started legislating how long email has to be saved, which means email archival is here to stay. Additionally, few companies have any idea the harmful and at times illegal correspondence lurking in their corporate email until it is too late. With fully integrated archival and content scanning capabilities, MPP assures your email system is fully compliant.

Comprehensive Support

Some would say that an email security solution is only as good as its support team. Quite simply, ours is the best, as we have a dedicated team of global support engineers ready to help you around-the-clock. And the fact that we can solve most of your problems remotely means we can usually save you the time and trouble altogether.
